

Tarzan

Did you know that part of the story of Tarzan, by Edgar Rice Burroughs, takes place in Wisconsin? Tarzan was a baby in the African jungle when his parents died. He was adopted and raised by a tribe of apes. It wasn't until he was a grown man that he saw humans again. One of these was a beautiful girl named Jane. Tarzan fell in love with her and travelled around the world looking for her. He ended up rescuing her from a forest fire in the north woods of Wisconsin!
